

SIERRA MADRE HAS OWN ART EXHIBIT COUNCIL CHAMBER HOUSES ARRAY OF LOCAL ART OUTSTANDING ANYWHERE

National Art Week is being observed in Sierra Madre by showing of a new exhibit of paintings and prints in the Council Chambers of the City Hall. Though the present showing is not limited to this week, it is to be hoped that all our citizens will soon avail themselves of the opportunity to see what a variety in medium, style and subject matter is produced here at home.

In a tour of the gallery we find typical Sierra Madre landscapes and a glamorous portrait, "Frances" by Alfred James Dewey. Helen Narozny and Beatrice Ward Melvor demonstrate their versatility with landscape, portrait and still life. Mrs. Narozny's "From My Window," helps us to appreciate the grandeur of our mountains while Mrs. Melvor's "Extra" makes us want to smile back at the jolly newsboy. An entirely different style is interestingly demonstrated in Caroline Rohland's "Children in Central Park" and her husband, Paul Rohland, offers a decorative, Victorian "Bouquet of Daisies". Outstanding among the landscapes is Howard Morledge's "Arizona Landscape" with its strong light and dark and warm color harmony. For those who want pictures to tell a story there is Cortney Miles' "Waiting for the Boss", Bernard Wynne takes us to Old Mexico in his crisp water color, "Taxco", and gives us a breath of sea in "At Anchor". Jonathan Scott is represented by two water colors held over from the previous exhibit, but they are a delight to look at again and again. Myrtle Weese contributes two colorful still lifes and a portrait of a lively looking young girl, "Betty", while from Margaret Cash we have a sunny little landscape and a strongly decorative flower study. Catherine Tuttle's two water colors are of contrasting subject matter—"Farm Shacks" and the "Pasadena Civic Center". Animal lovers will enjoy looking into the soulful eyes of the dog portraits by H. Robert Hildebrand. For closer inspection we have cases of miniatures by Ella Shepard Bush, dean of Sierra Madre artists and Daphne Alley, charming mission block print by Elmer Weese and two of the celebrated Lincoln etchings by Bernhard Wall. Altogether, there is something for everyone to go and see! The City Hall Gallery is open at all hours to visitors.

S.M. Students To Entertain
Kiwanis Club

Sierra Madre school students will be in charge of the special Kiwanis club program at next Tuesday's regular luncheon meeting at the Masonic Temple. President-elect Robert Green announced yesterday.

Talks on various aspects of local school life will be heard, and an interesting and varied musical program by the students has been arranged.

A group of local Kiwanians led by Kiwanis District Lieutenant-Governor Raymond C. Simpson is attending a charter meeting of the newly organized Azusa Kiwanis club tonight at Azusa.

Veterans Should Know Location of Nearest VA Office

Veterans would save thousands of dollars each month in transportation costs, telephone calls, and postage if they would learn the location of the nearest VA contact office—and use it.

Contact stations have been established wherever veteran population warrants and personnel and equipment permit. There are 24 such stations in the area covered by the Los Angeles VA regional office. Money, time, and trouble would be saved if veterans would avail themselves of this decentralized service.

At least 20,000 of the 60,000 former servicemen who call at metropolitan offices monthly could secure the same service much nearer their homes.

A total of 60,405 telephone calls were received by the regional office during October and a large percentage of these calls came long distance from communities with easily accessible VA offices.

Veterans write an average of 16,000 letters monthly to regional contact headquarters from areas equipped to handle the problems these letters contain.

TO THE EDITOR

Yes, I always read "Fire Flames" and find it not only instructive and full of news, but unusually well written for a non-professional columnist. I hope the NEWS always finds room to print it, as we should be constantly reminded that citizen co-operation is absolutely essential in a town without a large end paid Fire Department. Good luck to "Fire Flames" and the fine men it stands for.

School Drive
Opens Today

As in previous years, Sierra Madre school children again have an opportunity to share something with the needy children of other lands in the Junior Red Cross enrollment drive which opens today in the Sierra Madre school system and St. Rita's parochial school.

Mrs. E. W. Carver has been named local chairman of the annual Junior Red Cross enrollment drive to be assisted by Mrs. L. C. Danver.

Local schools have always had a 100 per cent enrollment in the drive, according to Mrs. Florence Peterson, local Red Cross secretary.

Contributions to the drive are used for the National Children's Fund, through which supplies are distributed to the children of devastated countries; for gift boxes filled with educational and health supplies, as well as toys to be sent to children abroad; for distribution of saved and knitted articles made by school children; for service to veterans who are hospital patients and for service to the blind.

The drive will close Friday, November 15.

At the request of Brother Wright, the Worshipful Clerk Shaw of the 97th Masonic District presented the 50 year button to Brother W. L. Porterfield.

Past Master Henry Rintelman was in charge of the refreshments which were served after the meeting.

To "revive" stale bread, put bread in a paper bag—sprinkle the bread lightly with warm water if very stale—and close the bag tightly; place in a 350° oven for from 10 to 15 minutes.

Local Poet Featured by Arts Guild

Program for the November meeting of the Guild, to be held on Friday evening, November 8 at the Arts Guild Studio, is to be one of old-fashioned flavor, consisting of the reading of ballads and a song fest by a barbershop quartet.

Matthew Biller, local poet, who has written a goodly number of ballads, will read some of his latest verses. He will be remembered as having appeared previously before the Guild in the reading of his ballads which he always interprets in his usual inimitable manner. Mr. Biller has three published books of verse and some of his work has appeared in the Sierra Madre Mercury, Poetry, a Magazine of verse, and other publications.

The Quartet of the Four Horse Men of San Gabriel is to render the song fest. This quartet is one of a nation-wide organization of quartets known as The Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. This Society is reported to number over 14,000 members in 240 chapters.

Mrs. Don Parker Gives Travel Talk for Camp Fire Blue Bird Groups

The Camp Fire Girls and Blue Birds with their mothers held their first joint meeting yesterday. The program was given in the auditorium of the school and tea was served in the cafeteria by the Odako Camp Fire Girls.

Everyone enjoyed the illustrated travel talk given by Mrs. Hjordis Parker on her summer's trip to Norway. She showed colored slides starting with the Central Park Zoo in New York and the boat, "Brazil" on which she sailed to Europe. There were views of the destruction in the harbor at La Havre, pictures of the lovely Norway fjords, a mountain climbing expedition up the highest mountain, Galdhøpiggen, and views taken from the top. Mrs. Parker gave a most interesting resume of her experiences.

Mrs. Lucy Young introduced Mrs. Robert Newbery, president of the local council who welcomed the mothers and presented: Blue Bird Forget-Me-Not troop with Mrs. Parker, leader and her assistant, Mrs. Bertha Baterson; Blue Bird Delphinium Mrs. Zelma Cooke, leader and her assistants Mrs. Betty Carver, Mrs. Doris Summers, and Mrs. Franklin Bradshaw; Blue Bird Wistaria, Helen Borbas, leader; Camp Fire Tawanka, Mrs. Frances Gentry, Camp Fire Odoko, Mrs. Lucy Young, leader.

This was conducted by Nancy Rankin. Troop No. 5 gave a skit "Emily the Goat." Mary Ann Reynolds introduced Troop No. 8 who recited the Girl Scout promises as they lighted the candles on a beautifully decorated birthday cake honoring the birthday of Juliette Low founder of Girl Scouting in America. The cake was presented later in the evening to the Children's Plaza Community Home. Mrs. Wm. Mallory was in charge of the community singing and music for the evening.

USC First College To Broadcast From Own Station

Twenty thousand owners of frequency modulation radio sets in southern California are hearing a new FM station nightly when the advent of KUSC, the University of Southern California's model radio station located in Hancock Hall on campus.

Culminating more than a year's effort in experimental techniques, the station took to the air on October 24, with a regularly scheduled broadcast time from 6 to 9 p.m. nightly, except Sundays. Programs include drama, music, special events and news, under the supervision of William Sener, former production manager of the Chicago Radio Council.

S. M. School Beats Azusa, Heads League

The Sierra Madre Elementary school climbed another notch nearer to the championship of the San Gabriel Valley Elementary Touch Football League by virtue of a 7-0 triumph over Azusa Elementary last Wednesday at Azusa.

This was the fourth league victory, out of five starts, for the local team which has not been scored upon this season. ### Troop 1, BSA Gervais Ranch Week End Guests

Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, spent the week end as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Luke Gervais, who have recently moved from Sierra Madre to their forty acre ranch home in the Antelope Valley.

The boys were led by their scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster, George Shipway and Bert Embree and were accompanied by troop committeemen Dr. Harry Morley and Lewis McClelland.

Arriving at noon Saturday the party pitched camp under the beautiful cottonwoods near the Gervais home. The afternoon was spent in inspecting the ranch and riding horses back on the Gervais and adjoining ranches.

After helping feed the farm animals the boys enjoyed their own dinner over their campfires, and closed the evening with a bonfire. Sunday morning after breakfast, Mr. McClelland conducted a brief outdoor church service and the boys broke up into hiking and riding parties, some visiting the Indian museum several miles distant.

The Scouts attending the "caravan" were: Russell Stillman, Wesley Shipway, John Claas, Jim Crane, Alex Murray, Don Proctor, Leland Ballinger and Jim Carlson.

Experienced Wood Artisan Located Here

William J. Terhorst of West Laurel Ave. is a skilled artisan who engages in his craft from his Sierra Madre headquarters despite material shortages and insufficient working space.

Terhorst is a cabinet maker with 36 years' experience, having begun an apprenticeship in Edmonton, Canada, when he was a boy of 14.

Since then he has made just about everything that is made with wood, including church pulpits, baptismal fonts and altars, curved moldings, stair crooks, and every kind of quality cabinet work. For years Terhorst was a detail shaperman in large wood-working shops doing fancy curved curlicues for ornate furniture. He recalls that he became a shaperman by accident, when the regular shaperman in a shop in which he was working at Everett, Washington, got drunk and failed to report for work. The superintendent told Terhorst to operate the shaper machine. He began with uncertainty but was soon a skilled operator.

He spent ten years with the E. K. Wood Lumber Co. main office in Los Angeles, as detail shaperman, before deciding to go in business for himself. The Terhorsts have lived in Sierra Madre for the past six years. Three of his sons served in the Armed Forces during the war. One of these, Arthur, who was overseas with the Eighth Air Force, is now associated with his father, as is a younger son, James.

The local cabinet maker is concerned only with quality work, despite the current difficulties in obtaining proper materials. He has recently completed contracts for new homes in Sierra Madre, Altadena and Pasadena.

and Things

I'm nobody! Who are you?
Are you nobody, too?
Then there's a pair of us—
don't tell!
They'd banish us, you know,
How dreary to be somebody!
How public like a frog
To tell your name the livelong day
To an admiring bog!

Emily Dickinson

[This was written almost a century ago. We frogs must have personality, else why would people talk so much about us? Anyway, for the record, I know of no instance of a frog willfully and maliciously harming anyone.]

THE ELECTION IS OVER THANK GOODNESS! Those who did not vote have no right to complain if the results did not satisfy them. Those who did exercise their right of franchise can rightly feel that they did their duty. But now, whether we are satisfied with the results or not, it is up to all of us to put our shoulders to the wheel, to stop crying, and to support the men elected by us to administer our government.

"With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on—"

NO MATTER WHAT WE SAY, WE ARE the most fortunate of all the peoples still living in this world so ravaged by years of war and political and economic strife. Surely these things are only the growing pains of a world seeking the fulfillment of a common brotherhood!

FROM PHILOSOPHY TO ZUCCHINI, the vegetable business being so close to my heart, I am proud to say that never have the green goods been finer or in better supply! The Lord having given us a mild October, it is still summertime here! Tomatoes, Cucumbers, Romaine, Watercress, Summer Squash, Green Wax and Lima Beans—and all the summer items—are still present, in addition to the so-called winter vegetables such as Cauliflower, Broccoli, Brussels Sprouts, Artichokes, Rutabagas, Parsnips and Asparagus.

AS YOU KNOW, THE FRESH STUFF is my forte. But a lot of you folks buy Frozen Foods, so I must tell you that in my opinion PICTSWEET can't be beat, either as to fresh-like flavor or consistent quality. Two new items in our freezer—though not PICTSWEET—are Anderson's Split Pea Soup and Whip Topping, both unusually good and worth a trial!

MY HOLIDAY DISPLAY OF DATES, FIGS and Nuts is almost complete. We already have new crop Walnuts, Almonds, Filberts, Pecans, Black Walnuts, Mixed Nuts, Chestnuts AND Brazil Nuts (Nigger Toes to you!), the last-named having been off the market for a long time. Dates and nuts are already packaged for shipping; and we will prepare other gift packages to suit you. Just give us your order and let us ship it for you to Aunt Jane at Dubuque.

THIS BEING A COMPLETE MARKET, UNLESS I mention the other departments, I will have my rump slapped. CURLY assures me that the Grocery Department is more than holding its own. There are still shortages in soap, shortening, margarine and oil. Although the supply is gradually increasing, and though we display it when it comes in, not all of you can be clairvoyant enough to be here at the right time; and consequently you often fail to get some of the things you really need. THAT makes US unhappy, 'cause we will never feel we are doing our best toward "Building a Business that Will Never Know Completion" until you can come to this big, little store—which is, I hope, your favorite market—and buy here just what you want when you want it!

BY THE WAY, CURLY HAS JUST received a shipment of those hard-to-get GRABER'S LARGE TREE-RIPENED OLIVES. These are without doubt the finest of California olives. He suggests you put away a can or two for the holidays.

THE DELICATESSEN CASE IS once more loaded with fine cheeses, lunch meats, pickles, kraut, potato salad and so forth! THE MEAT CASES ARE FILLED WITH all the things you have been wanting: fine Beef, Veal, Pork, Lamb—and even all the by-products such as brains, liver, hearts and tongues. Just step right up and order what you need. PRICES ARE LOWER, TOO! LES has received quite a few compliments from out-of-towners who see much and know a lot about what other meat markets are doing. "It is the best meat display I have seen in seven years." AND "YOU are selling better meat than I have seen any place." Such remarks not only make the butchers feel good, but they also keep up the morale of those of us who are working so hard in the rest of the store. See what I mean?

DON'T FORGET THAT THIS DOMAIN of the Frog is bounded on the East by Marty's automotive Repair Shop, on the North by Roy's sometimes tireless but never gasless Service Station, and on the West by Larry's Wistaria Bake Shop.

AND NOW FROM ZUCCHINI, CHEESE AND MEAT to ART: Last month I told you about the Art Exhibit then showing in the Council Room at the City Hall. Here is the report for THIS month: Alfred James Dewey, President of the Arts Guild and down-to-earth creator of finer works of art than you will find in many a moon, tells me that this is National Art Week; and that in recognition of this event a completely new exhibit of the works of local and able—but relatively unsung—artists are now ready for your critical eye at the City Hall.

THESE PAINTINGS ARE FOR SALE, with the price plainly marked thereon, and I can assure you that the costs of same are no greater than under OPA ceilings, nor than those which prevailed even before the War. In other words, the price of art has not increased, though I may safely say the appreciation thereof has. Whether or not you wish to buy, I think your time will be well-spent in viewing this exhibit of the efforts of our friends and neighbors. Of one thing I am sure, if you should decide to hang one of these things in your modest bungalow, you will be able to look at it with pleasure for all the years to come and without the headache or eye-strain which you might acquire by purchasing some of the more "modern" expressions of art elsewhere offered you.

Into my heart's treasury
I slipped a coin
That time cannot take
Nor a thief purloin—
Oh, better than the minting
Of a gold-crowned king
Is the safe-kept memory
Of a lovely thing.
—Sara Teasdale

Recalls Local Boyhood of Radio Artist

The boyhood in Sierra Madre of Bob Mitchell, popular radio organist and composer, and director of the Bob Mitchell Boys' Choir, was recalled this week by Mrs. Edith M. Pictor, formerly of Sierra Madre, who now lives in Los Angeles.

"When Bob Mitchell lived here from 1916 to 1926 we remember him as a precocious little fellow, our musical wonder, and the only child of a musical mother," Mrs. Pictor said.

"Sitting on the piano bench with Bob, his mother supervised the four or five hours daily practice which together with Bob's natural aptitude and talent, made up his musical foundation.

Bob sang in the choir at the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, and it was there that he first became intrigued with the organ. Before he was able to do more than reach the pedals on the organ, the boy climbed on the organ bench and surreptitiously pulled stops and attempted to play the organ.

The late Frances Webster Kitsman, organist at the church, became interested in the boy, giving him his first organ lessons, Mrs. Pictor recalled. Bob's mother, Mrs. Robert Mitchell, assembled a children's orchestra, and it was there that the boy did his first conducting, a beginning that has led to the formation of men's choral groups in recent years. The late Robert Mitchell, well-known attorney and one-time mayor of Sierra Madre, was Bob's father.

When only 16 years of age, Bob organized and directed a boys' choir at All Saints Episcopal Church in Santa Barbara, and after leaving Sierra Madre with Ernest Douglas, he became assistant organist at St. Mathias. Following a scholarship in the Eastern School of Music, and another in the New York College of Music, he was awarded the high degree of Fellow of the American Guild of Organists when he was only 10 years of age. This was followed by an intensive period of study in Europe.

Serving in the Navy in World War II, Mitchell was stationed 10 months on Guam, where he brought together the boys in singing, conducted two choirs, played solos on a portable organ, and furnished the music for all religious services.

The first Bob Mitchell Boys' Choir was organized in 1934, making a professional appearance on Christmas of that year. Since then the group has appeared in movies and on many nationwide radio programs.

Asked if a Sierra Madre program might be arranged on one of his broadcasts, Mitchell told Mrs. Pictor in an interview that it might, for he fully recognized Sierra Madre's part in his musical development.

UNIT CITATIONS AWARDED 5 CARRIERS . . . Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal awarded unit citations to five aircraft carriers for inflicting "terrific losses" on the Jap navy during the war. The ships commended were: Cowpens, Enterprise, Hancock, Langley and the Wasp. Forrestal is shown at left. The five other men shown are officers of the aircraft carrier, Wasp.

S. M. Student Council Buys Ball Jerseys

The student council of the Sierra Madre Elementary school appropriated money for 24 football jerseys in the school colors of red and yellow, at the first meeting of the school year last week. The group also voted to buy a stop watch from student funds.

Desirability of installing showers in the school was discussed and a student representative was appointed to investigate the cost.

Officers of the student council are Tom Henze, president; Margot Woodworth, vice-president; Tommy Thurston, secretary; and John Woehler, treasurer.

Representing the different rooms on the council are Margot Woodworth and Edwin Jacobson, Miss Newton's room, Jackie Thurston and John Woehler, Mr. McElfresh's room; Susan Hitchcock and Tommy Thurston, Mr. Morrow's room; Janet Timmins and Janice Lees, Mrs. Gardner's room; Carol Emorling and Leo Alasin, Mrs. Horn's room; Charles Nibbs and Jerry Davis, Mr. Matthews' room; Bella Dworetzky and Myron Smith, Miss Pfahler's room; Blythe Gentry and Deane Pennock, Mrs. Adams' room; Marilyn Hailey and Sammy Bradshaw, Mrs. Wheeler's room; and Richard Stam and Nancy Rogers, representatives of Mrs. Lumsden's room.

BALLING BABY TALK

BY MAXINE BALLING
ANY MEN who may have started to read this paragraph are politely advised to turn to the sports page right now, for we're going to talk about DOLLS . . . dolls at the Balling Baby Shop. So you boys beat it, see! SHOOO!

Now when it comes to writing about DOLLS, it's easy for me to blow my top, for this generation's dolls are SOME-THING compared to the dolls I used to play with. (I'll never forget my Suzy. Her body was just a bag of sawdust. She had a frozen half-smile that remained the same whether her eyes were open or closed. But how I loved her!) NOW, ADAMS the dolls have soft, cuddly bodies, and beautiful natural expressions on their faces. And clothes! We have baby dolls with long dresses, little-girl dolls with party dresses, and even Hollywood "BABE" dolls with formal, or afternoon frocks and big hats. They're designed with personality.

One of the famous dolls is the Molly Doll, called that because it's personally designed by Molly. It's washable, and beautifully dressed, with quite a choice of clothes. So whatever kind of doll you want to give that little girl for Christmas, you'll find it at the Balling Baby Shop.

You can even get a toy bathinette so that she can play like she's giving dolly a bath. It's made just like the big ones, with folding legs.

And while we're in the bathroom, I'll tell you about the new Tykie Toys that float. They're designed with such amusing appearance that little Abercrombie will want to stay in the tub for hours, and you'll have no trouble at all attacking him with the soap, for he'll be concentrating on "Sammy Sunfish" or "Eddy Egg" or one of the other cute characters in the Tykie Toy line.

To get to the point, the preceding five paragraphs are intended to impress you that when you start looking for Christmas gifts for little girls . . . or boys . . . all you have to do is come over to the Balling Baby Shop, 401½ South Myrtle Avenue, in Monrovia. We wrap your purchases for gifts or mailing. You can lay it away with a little deposit. And you can charge it.

Gas Company Appoints New Sales Sup'v'r

George H. Clayton has been appointed to the position of Division Sales Supervisor for the Southern California Gas Company, which includes Sierra Madre, it has been announced by A. E. Madden, Division Manager. Clayton is replacing R. E. Honey who resigned his position with the company to enter private business. He will be a distributor in the Pacific Northwest for a nationally known appliance. Clayton has been with the Gas Company for some 10 years, outside of a war-time interval. He was in the service of the A.T.C. as a Navigator flying military personnel and war supplies across the Atlantic to Africa and England.

Clayton was first employed as a helper on a crew and has progressed through various steps in the company organization to his present position. He worked in the Sales Department for five years previous to his taking charge of this phase of the Company business. George, as he is better known to his friends, is a graduate of both grammar and high schools in Monrovia, participating in football and track while in High School.

R. E. Honey has been in the employ of the Gas Company for 14 years in charge of the sales and new construction department. Dick, as he is more familiarly known, was active in the civic life of Monrovia during his residence there. For the past year Honey was honored by election to the presidency of the El Monte Rotary Club. He is returning to his former home of Portland, Oregon, where he will establish his headquarters for his appliance business. He is eminently qualified to enter this field through his many years of utility experience.

FALL FADS

Fall colors are rich, crisp and beautiful. This year we are especially interested in the "earthy" tints, velvety purples and "spicy" cinnamon and oranges. Our high-fashion menu are for season styles with golden squash, ruby beets, purple eggplant, wine-red apples and emerald greens. From the rich earth our food stylists can gather their feast-making for our mealtime picture. And it is so easy to choose from our great variety on nature's palette. Maybe our artistic talents don't show up with a brush and oils—but there isn't one who can't follow these suggestions to help paint up our menus and eating hours.

FRANKFURTER SAUCEPOT

1 package frosted green bean
1 package frosted corn
2 tsp. parsley, chopped
2 tsp. dry mustard

1/2 c. cold water
1 pound frankfurters
Cook frosted beans and corn according to direction on package. Place together in sauce pan and add the parsley. Shake mustard and cold water in covered jar. Stir into green bean and corn mixture and bring to a boil. Cut frankfurters in half lengthwise and place on top. Cover and cook over low heat 10 minutes or longer. 6 servings.

STUFFED EGGPLANT

3 small eggplants
2 tomatoes, peeled
1 lb. raw ground meat
1 c. fine bread crumbs
1 small onion, diced
2 tsp. chopped parsley
2 tsp. margarine
Salt and pepper
Wash eggplant; cut in half lengthwise and parboil 15 minutes in water to cover. Scoop out pulp leaving 1/2-inch shell. Chop pulp and tomatoes; add meat, 3/4 bread crumbs, and remaining ingredients; mix well. Fill shells with mixture; top with remaining bread crumbs. Bake at 375 F. for 30 minutes. 6 servings.

Battery Care Urged as New Ones Scarce

Seven specific precautions designed to help troubled motorists get "every ounce" of mileage out of their present batteries are outlined by the emergency service club of Southern California as part of its campaign to assist car owners through the severest battery shortage period in automotive history. The warnings were as follows:

- Take hydrometer readings at least every two weeks and maintain specific gravity readings at 1.285 to 1.300.
- See that battery is set firmly in carrier as jarring causes loose connections at both positive and negative terminals and possible cracking of battery case or top of battery.
- Use radio, lights, etc., as little as possible to give generator opportunity to recharge fully.
- Don't allow third wire to become loose or broken.
- Keep terminals clear of corrosion.
- Watch water level of battery closely, and (g) recharge battery as soon as it becomes necessary.

The Automobile Club states that it is placing added emphasis on the care of batteries at this time not only because of the acute shortage, but also because of the fact that faulty batteries are responsible for more winter starting difficulties than all other parts in the car combined.

SEEING IS BELIEVING
Forest Officer Tom Henderson brought a sweet potato to the News office Monday to demonstrate that Sierra Madre soil can grow remarkable vegetables. The potato measured 14 inches in length, 18 in circumference and was one of three giant tubers on the same root.

Harold Roberts weighed the potato, seven pounds and nine ounces, the largest, he said, he had ever seen raised in the area.

California has the largest amount of developed water power of any state in the Union.

FIRE FLAMES

After two seasons of almost ideal Halloween celebrations, why, oh why, has such a one that has just passed come to life? Is it the war? Can it be returned service men? Are we going back wards? Just about the time it looked as tho' education and experience had taught us that such silly ideas as placing and shooting dangerous fireworks in the hands of children, and the arsonic idea of lighting dry trees next to someone's home should be discarded, along comes such a night as we experienced on Halloween. Thank goodness the little children appear to be more interested in the entertainment furnished by the schools. This may bring hope for the future. We in Sierra Madre had little damage in comparison to some of the other districts. A large palm tree ignited just west of the Hotel Sierra Madre caused alarm for a short time. Fortunately for us, the night was calm. The danger of such fires should be and must be realized by those who light them. They can only be thoughtless persons. Such people usually come from a family where pampering has been practiced and the individual has never known responsibility. He or she surely has never had to work very hard for the provisions they received. Lack of impressive punishment to those found guilty of such destructive vandalism can also be blamed. We can also blame ourselves when we heroically boast of the similar things we used to do in the "good old days." We can expect a youngster to try the same thing if we tell and laugh of the way we used to grease the car tracks and put poor old Siyas Drygrass' buggy atop the barn. And how we laughed at the crippled old fellow trying to get it down. Yes, sir, those were the good old days, but I thought we had outlived such antics. If we have not, well, progress is slow in the making. At any rate, if the writer is right or wrong, we still have the hazard of fire and if any one thinks that a burning palm tree is harmless, then it is time for some of us to give up the ghost and quit trying. It might be a good idea to explain to your children when you tell them of your past escapades, that after all it does no one any good and lots of harm to all. Maybe the youngster will have enough sense to refrain from following suit. Because Halloween continues to be a night of vandalism, the fire department held enough men at the station to answer and take care of alarms. Because of the usual habit of those who light palm trees and start fires, the department endeavored to retain one of the three trucks ready to go. Those responsible for the fires were at least thoughtful enough to keep the time between fires suitable. It is sincerely hoped and begged that the practice of starting incendiary fires is discontinued. Those who do this are not getting even with the firemen or with the police. They are actually disturbing their good neighbors and friends. There is no reason to think that the guilty ones have a grudge toward firemen and police other than that they perhaps think the police interfere with their "rights" by forbidding anything destructive. It is certainly too sad that we had to have our good reputation marred this year after such almost perfect two Hallows eves just passed. On behalf of the public who have thanked the writer, the men who gave their time to the protection of the city at the fire station are hereby thanked and appreciated. Their interest and loyalty is beyond praise. Some of the fellows were at the station as late as three a.m. after having been called from their beds at 1:30 a.m. When an old resident burned an open fire in the midst of the strong wind of last Saturday, there was some excuse because of the age, but others who would at any time be so thoughtless as to even think of lighting a fire on such a day at any time, should and perhaps would be reprimanded to the extent of a heavy fine. You must not burn during a wind, even tho' it be before nine a.m. Our local Ordinance forbids and if you are thinking of it, don't do it. Others help, the firemen will do their utmost to keep the FIRES OUT.

November 7, 1946

She never had a thing to say but thought she ought to say something.

Deigaard's Pyracantha "Victory"

The latest creation in red berried Pyracanthas. Surpasses every known variety in size of berries, thickness of clusters and in the red brilliance of color.

It is a marvelous decorative plant for the winter months, when lack of color prevails in your garden. It is the best decorative plant for Christmas. Berries mature late, showing their finest scarlet brilliance around the Holidays, when other Pyracanthas are already in the dull stage of over-ripeness. They are disliked by birds, and the plant is the most resistant to blight!

DIEGAARD'S PYRACANTHA "VICTORY" DESERVES AN OUTSTANDING PLACE IN YOUR GARDEN.

ARMISTICE DAY—

The observance of Armistice Day creates a rather awkward situation. This was the day marking the end of the war that was to end wars. But war came again. Now, Armistice Day is a reminder of the hopes that were not fulfilled after World War I.

On November 11, 1918 the world seemed confident—so blindly confident—that international armed conflict, by some magic never before demonstrated by man, had vanished from the earth. Yet, even then the fires of small conflicts continued to burn in Europe, and at intervals in the succeeding decades the flames of war flared up here and there throughout the globe until a worldwide conflagration burst forth once more with increased fury and intensity.

On this Armistice Day of 1946 the world is again seeking to establish a spirit of cooperation and understanding among the nations which will eliminate the use of arms in the settling of disputes. This time the world is not confident of enduring peace. Quite the contrary. But the hope for peace lives on—a hope fired by the realization that civilization could hardly survive another upheaval.

Somehow, the dream which the nations thought had come true on that November day nearly 30 years ago may yet—must yet—be realized Out of the ashes of the old League of Nations has arisen the new United Nations. Out of the failure of the old league may come the secret of success for the new one. Out of the dream of yesterday must come the reality of tomorrow—lasting peace.

AROUND AND ABOUT

By Edward Lloyd Voorhees

SCOTLAND—Ayr and Alloway and the bonny banks o' Doon.

On the early morning train from Glasgow down to Ayr, some forty miles southeast, I had a pleasant conversation with a fine elderly Scotch woman, whose speech had a tangy flavor as rich as that of ground walnut and Stilton cheese and who entertained me with information about the countryside and towns through which we passed and advised me how to go about seeing the Robert Burns memorials at Ayr, of which town she herself was a native resident. I recall that when we made a stop at Paisley where the self-taught sculptor, when I mentioned that the shawls which take their name from that town are well known and highly prized in the United States of America.

Although Ayr is a town of some 40,000, with greatly diversified industries and commerce, manufacturing woolen and leather goods, carpets, lace, blankets, shoes and shoes, and exports besides all these agricultural products, iron, and coal, I did not explore, for I had only the day, and I had come as on a pilgrimage to see the memorials of the Scottish poet. So I only noted in passing the handsome modern town buildings—the Gothic Wallace Tower on High Street with its famous clock and bells, its niche containing the statue made by the self-taught sculptor, James Thom, of my boyhood hero, William Wallace; and the fine county buildings patterned after the ancient temple of Isis at Rome. I understand there is even a northern suburb called Wallace Town, but I was and still am confident that nothing remaining there in this modern world could add any touch of reality to my train friend's picture of my 13th century hero and the gory action portrayed in Jane Porter's "The Scottish Chiefs," in the chapter entitled "The Instructions of my train friend."

I got a seat on top of a train that took me through lovely Rosell Wood with its giant beech trees and landed me two miles south, at Burns' own village of Alloway, where the river Doon between its "bonnie banks" flows into the broad waters of the Firth of Clyde. The whole of Ayrshire is, of course, redolent with memories of Burns, but I was concentrating today only upon this one little suburb of the town of Ayr, Alloway, the poet's birthplace.

I rose from my bus seat—which flew off after me to a near-perpendicular position, a practical application of thrifty Scotch common-sense which metropolitan busses might well copy to keep exposed seats dry—and got off to walk through outskirt of the quaint old village with its lovely surroundings of greenery. The air was bracing, fresh and salty from the west, the sun kindly warmed my face, and I walked on west up the road, plucking on the way, for sentiment's sake, a buttercup and even a Scotch thistle, and suddenly I was upon open field with the dancing waters of the sea a sight which never fails to fill me with wonder. I then circled back, crossing the Doon over "Alloway Auld Brig"—one of three bridges of which are memorialized by Burns in his poem "The Brig o' Ayr," in which the poet makes the Old Bridge scoff at the New Bridge, saying that itself will still be a bridge when its nearest neighbor will be a "shapeless cairn"—a prophecy which was fulfilled.

nearly a hundred years later, when in 1877 the New Bridge was so battered by floods that it had practically to be rebuilt at a cost of $15,000, with additional repairs ten years later. The Old Bridge, on the contrary, has stood for nobody knows how many centuries, unscathed by time or tide.

The Old Bridge is a simple arch of stone, and as I crossed it that day I encountered at its far end a fine-looking man clean-shaven, dressed, seated in a wheel chair, with a violin resting across his knees. He greeted me pleasantly and in talking with him I learned that he had sustained an incurable back injury when he was a youth in the mills near by twenty years before. So here he was, making his living by playing Scottish songs, most of them inspired by the words of Bobby Burns, and I listened there near the Auld Brig o' Doon while he played in clear, clean tones "Ye banks and braes o' bonnie Doon," "Highland Mary," "Auld Lang Syne," "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Annie Laurie." Having left my shilling on the arm of his chair and thanked him for the pleasure of hearing such good Scotch music at the Auld Brig, we shook hands and when I had turned away he started up a lively sort of fling as an encore and farewell.

It was thus that I entered the grounds of the Burns Monument and Gardens nearby. Surrounded by a low, beveled stone wall surmounted by an ornate wrought iron fence, this enclosure of several acres contains in flourishing condition specimens of the many trees, shrubs, vines, and flowers which the poet loved and mentioned in his writings—though he was obviously much more interested in people, especially the lassies, for whom trees, shrubs, vines, and flowers made pretty frames for a lively lad's fancies! In the midst of all this greenery in the Burns "Gardens" rises the fair and stately monument to the poet—a tomb-like under-structure of great blocks of rough-hewn native rock, this topped by freizes and a rectangle of white sandstone or marble from which rises a open rotunda composed of nine slender and fluted Corinthian columns of white marble in a circle—nine of them, one for each of the Muses—supporting a ornate cupola roof that

Nancy Holmes SUGGESTS

THUMB was when pears were a summer and early fall delicacy, but now—thanks to improved storage and transportation facilities—we can munch on this juicy, delicious fruit most any time we please. However, people will agree that pears are tastiest this time of year when they're tree-ripened and hurried to market. Furthermore, the prices suit the purse better than later on when they step into the luxury class.

Because pears are plentiful now, Nancy Holmes of the Best Foods kitchen suggests that you serve them often. But she hastens to add that variety must be introduced into their preparation to avoid monotony. For instance, stewed pears cooked in orange juice and corn syrup, then flavored with grated orange rind and chopped mint, when available, are something to smack your lips over.

For another tempting dish, Nancy pulled out the old bean pot and baked her pears in it with brown sugar, a pinch of ginger, a couple of lemon slices and just enough water to prevent discoloration. Place the pears in the center of each half and then a spoonful of the mayonnaise mixture. Top each salad with a whole nut meat. Arrange on a lettuce leaf and serve with additional cheese-mayonnaise mixture. Yield: 6 servings.

Fresh Pear Salad

1/2 cup real mayonnaise
1/2 cup shredded cheese
1/2 cup sliced walnuts
1 large pear
1 large blue plume, cut in rings
1/2 cup sliced walnuts
1 large pear

Toss together real mayonnaise and shredded cheese. Peel, halve and core pears. Dip in lemon juice to prevent discoloration. Place plume ring in the center of each half and then a spoonful of the mayonnaise mixture. Top each salad with a whole nut meat. Arrange on a lettuce leaf and serve with additional cheese-mayonnaise mixture. Yield: 6 servings.

is like a royal diadem of the Classic Era. I suspect that architects would disagree on the matter of taste, but I am confident that Bobby Burns would have loved it!

Pasadena OPA Board Office Closes

The Price Control Board at Pasadena, serving this area, closed on November 4, 1946, Stanley Calvert, chairman of the local board announced today.

"This step marks the conclusion of almost five years unprecedented patriotic service by many citizens of the district, who, through their thousands of hours of volunteer work have prevented inflationary dangers from taking effect and saw that their neighbors had an equal right to their fair share of scarce commodities during the days of rationing," Mr. Calvert said.

"Members of Pasadena's price control board stayed on the job for more than a year after the end of the war. Production has had a chance to catch up with demand. Now that President Truman has announced the program for accelerating the remaining wartime controls, Price Administrator Paul A. Porter has determined that the remaining functions of local boards can be continued by the District OPA office at 1206 Santee St., Los Angeles 15, California."

Mr. Calvert gave the following information as to the conducting of OPA business in the future:

1. Trade and consumer inquiries about price control formerly handled by price control boards should be addressed to the OPA District Office in Los Angeles.
2. Certificates of transfer covering sales of used passenger automobiles may be obtained from principal auto dealers. Dealers should request additional supplies from the OPA Regional Mail Center at 1387 Mission St., San Francisco, Calif.
3. Sugar rationing has been administered from the District Office since last January. In the future, sugar forms required by the trade and consumers may be obtained from the District Office.
4. Pending compliance action by the board will be transferred to the District Office.
5. The local board office will be closed for the transaction of public business on and after November 4. However, the paid clerical personnel will continue on duty during the month of November in order to transfer records to the District Office and to perform the many other duties involved in closing the board.

Patience and the ability to catch split-second action with your shutter are the requisites of good pet photography. Series D. Graflex photo by Marshall Kelly.

PATIENCE MAKES GOOD PET PICTURES

Dogs, cats, birds and other pets seem to rate a close second to children as the favorite amateur camera subject. Unfortunately, most pets are not very cooperative when it comes to picture-making. They seem to have no reason to hold a pose while you fuss with your camera and lights, and usually get up and walk off in boredom just as you are finally ready to snap the shutter.
Dogs are probably the easiest pets to photograph because of their willingness to obey commands. If you have your camera and lights all set up before putting the dog in position, he will usually stay long enough for several exposures.
Like children, dogs need something to hold their attention and stimulate various poses and expressions.
Your best bet is to have some one the dog likes on the sidelines armed with a bit of food, a dog hiscuit or other bait. Then your job is reduced to lighting the animal properly and watching carefully for the right moment to snap a picture.
Here are a few hints you should remember for best pictures. Use a fast shutter speed to catch even the slightest quick movement. Animals are seldom completely still.

Work with flash or natural sunlight. It's easier on the dog than forcing him to stay under hot bright floodlights. Watch your background carefully to see that no bold patterns or extraneous objects compete for attention. Shoot from a low camera angle. When you look down on animals in pictures, they usually don't look right, for that isn't the way your eyes are used to seeing them.

Use the smallest lens aperture your light will permit with a shutter speed of at least 1/100 sec. If the dog moves at all you will need all the depth of field you can get to keep all of him in focus. And don't get too close or you will distort the parts of the dog nearest the camera. Six feet is a good minimum distance, and you can blow up a portion of your negative later if desired.

Above all, don't keep the animal waiting while you get your equipment set. He'll fidget even sooner than human subjects do. And have lots of patience for you will never get that perfect picture the first shot.

VET'S Rental

Construction

The new booklet of interest to sponsors of rental housing titled "Rental Housing for Veterans" is available at 112 W. 9th St., office of the Federal Housing Administration, it was announced today.

The booklet is a comprehensive study of rental housing production, covering basic procedures and planning and including floor plan suggestions for rental housing projects. It discusses credit facilities, tax factors, mortgage terms, and investment prospects.

"The booklet should be particularly helpful at this time," declared John E. McGovern, Federal Housing Administration Director, "There is a great need for more apartments for rent to veterans who are not in a position to buy houses at this time. The fundamental need of this large group of veterans is for rental housing which they can afford.
The study points the way for private capital to provide that housing on a sound investment basis." The FHA proposes to en-mark $1,000,000,000 of its insurance authorization for rental housing for veterans. The special provisions of the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act make it possible to finance housing on exceptionally attractive terms.

Hallowe'en Pranks of '90s Amusing, Not Destructive, Recalls Richard S. Jensen

Muffled Bell Clapper, Wild Horseless Ride

The fact that "boys were boys," even back in the 1890s when Hallowe'en pranks were all in fun, and vandalism was rare, was recalled recently by Richard S. Jensen, retired Sierra Madrean, in telling of a muffled bell clapper and of a wild ride down Baldwin Ave., as daring as anything attempted by modern teenagers in their stripped-down

"hot-rods".

It was or Hallowe'en of 1894 that young Jensen acted as sentry for a group of local school boys who climbed up in the belfry of the old Sierra Madre school building and muted the bell-clapper with tangled baling wire.

The school was then located at Baldwin Ave. and Sierra Madre Blvd. on the Northeast corner of what is now Kersting Court. The larger pepper trees now standing in either side of the P.E. station were in front of the school grounds, which extended northward to the old Forley Poore Sheehan house at 65 North Baldwin.

Next morning after the bell muffled incident, time came to ring the school bell, and the rope was pulled with no effect. Only those who attended school in those days can appreciate the consternation caused by this incident.

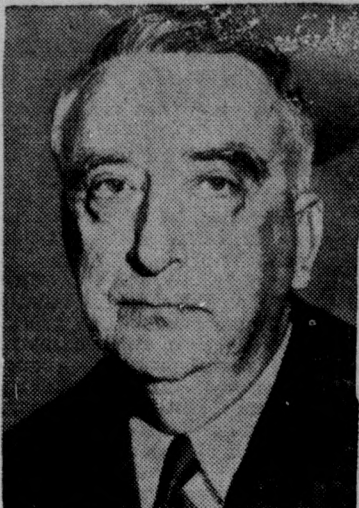

The principal reported the mute school bell to the superintendent who in turn called in the school trustees, one of whom climbed the bell tower and removed the wire.

The bell restored to its usual resonance, the school term moved on to its close. Along with the spring commencement exercises, it was traditional at the end of school in those days to return to the students all lost articles that had accumulated during the term.

On the last day of school in the spring of 1895, the routine return of lost articles was progressing in the Sierra Madre school. One by one, articles were held up before the assembled students, and one by one they were identified and the claimant went forward to recover the lost article.

Finally, a silk handkerchief was held up by principal W. J. Hornby, who inquired, "Will the owner of this handkerchief please come forward?"

A boy whose thoughts were

NEW CHIEF JUSTICE... When the United States Supreme court began its new term, in a brief but ceremonious session, Fred M. Vinson, was installed as the new chief justice. He is shown above as he took his place on the bench.

properly on the forthcoming summer vacation, walked to the front of the room and thrust out his hand to reclaim his property. Principal Hornby hesitated a moment before returning the handkerchief and said, "This was found in the school belfry the morning after last Hallowe'en." The school room was immediately in an uproar, and the boy returned to his seat with the silk handkerchief, and a very red face.

This story was told again and again in Sierra Madre at the turn of the century, Jensen recalls. Miss Elizabeth Steinberger, when asked about the old school bell, reported that the same bell still hangs in the present Sierra Madre school building where the school caretaker regularly rang it every morning at 8:30, during the years she was school principal.

The wild ride of which Jensen tells, occurred in the late '90s when, with young Dudley Gresham, he took an old horse drawn hack to the top of Baldwin Ave. and after removing the shafts, tied a rope to each end of the front axle.

Then the boys got in the front seat, and each one grasping a rope, pushed off down the steep hill. The vehicle gathered momentum as it rolled, and every now and then, one of the two passengers would give a sharp tug on his guide rope, spinning the hack around in a cloud of dust.

Gathering speed as they passed the school and town hall, near where Sierra Madre Blvd. now runs, the boys saw down at the foot of Baldwin Ave., across Orange Grove, the large open reservoir yawning before them. There were no brakes on the hack and little space in which to stop. But, Jensen remembers, they finally brought the vehicle to a grinding halt, just a few feet short of the water.

Australia, British South Africa, Argentina and the United States are the four greatest wool growing countries.

Enough energy is contained in a single new high-energy flashlight battery to lift a 110-pound girl 99 feet straight up.

Model Car, Coach Contest Offers Many Scholarships And Prizes to Craftsmen

Boys 12-19 Eligible Contest Ends June 15

The Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild this week announced its 1947 model car and model coach contests. Competitions in which youthful craftsmen throughout the nation will compete for eight university scholarships and 1,176 cash awards aggregating $85,000.

The amount of money being offered to stimulate creative ability and fine handwork in the country's teen-age youth has been increased by approximately $10,000 over the 1946 competition.

As in 1946, the 1947 program will be divided into two age divisions. The junior division includes boys from 12 through 15, while those from 16 through 19 are in the senior group. Boys who became 16 after Sept. 1, 1946 will remain in the junior division, and boys passing 19 after Sept. 1, 1946 still remain eligible as seniors.

Youths may choose to design and build a model automobile, or construct a miniature Napoleonic coach. In building a Napoleonic coach, the design of which is based upon two coaches used a century and a half ago by Emperor Napoleon, enrollees will compete for 588 cash awards and four university scholarships, two of them being $4,000 each and the other two being $2,000 each.

In making model cars embodying their own ideas in design, Guildsmen will compete for 588 cash awards and four university scholarships, two of them being $4,000 each and the other two being $2,000 each.

In all cases the scholarships will be awarded for any university the winners may select. Cash awards will be given to first, second and third place winners in each division of both competitions in the 48 states and the District of Columbia. In addition, the 36 winners in the nine regions of the Guild will be given expense-free trips to the National Craftsman's Guild convention next summer at which the scholarship winners will be named.

Both competitions close June 15, 1947. A board of judges, composed of outstanding educators, engineers, inventors and automobile style experts will decide all major awards. In any case where the son of a General Motors employee is judged to be a winner, a duplicate award will be made.

Field representatives of the Craftsman's Guild will go into public schools throughout the country this fall to present the Guild program to students.

Spanish Padres' Part in State History Told

The first consecutive narrative of the geographical contributions of Spanish missionaries on the west coast is told in a new book, "Franciscan Explorations in California."

The book is based on notes and unpublished studies by the late Dr. Herbert I. Priestly, former professor of Mexican history on the Berkeley campus of the University Extension history instructed by Dr. Lillian E. Fisher, University Extension history instructor.

or, and published in a limited edition by the Arthur H. Clark Company of Glendale.

UCLA Professor Sees Confusion In U. S. Youth

Not for a century have young Americans sought so confusedly to make the sort of life they want to live.

This is the belief of Dr. Carl Bode, assistant professor of English on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California and Lecturer for University Extension, who defends it on the basis of research work just completed for the book, "The Portable Thoreau," which the Viking Press is now printing.

"The returning veteran, multiplied by thousands, is seeking a satisfactory way of living. If he doesn't want to go into business or a profession, what is he to do? That is the same question Thoreau and Emerson found in their generation. Thoreau solved this, as well as the housing problem, by building his hut at Walden a hundred years ago."

Acknowledging that this solution is not open to all similarly puzzled young men today, Dr. Bode believes that continuing education is a guarantee of satisfaction in itself, as well as a road leading to a practical goal.

Postal Receipts Rise

Postal receipts at the Sierra Madre post office totaled $334,178 for the month of October, a substantial increase over the same month last year, when receipts totaled $295,471. Postmaster Thomas R. Durning announced today.

LOCAL BUILDING PERMITS IN SHARP RISE THIS YEAR

Building permits were issued in Sierra Madre during October for construction totaling $89,217. Construction during October, 1945 was $85,300 in comparison. Valuation of local building permits for the first ten months of this year was $706,923, nearly double that for the same period in 1945.

ROUND THE TOWN

♦ A. H. Embree of the postoffice is carrying his left arm in a sling resulting from a fall on the trail Sunday when he badly sprained his wrist.

♦ William McDonnell remains in critical condition following an auto accident at San Bernardino Saturday evening. Mr. McDonnell at one time was head of the Four Square Gospel church in Sierra Madre.

PARTY PINK — A strapless pink chiffon dancing dress is Helen Parrish's choice for winter parties. The dress, which was designed by Ceil Chapman, is full skirted and has sequin embroidery on the bodice. Miss Parrish is the star of NBC's "Hour Glass" show.

TWO-TONED FROCK — A streak of brilliant pink shoots across the bodice of this Nan-Tucket Natural dress and ends in a soft draw-string pocket. NBC singer, Irene Jordan chose it in a warm shade of brown because it matched her eyes and light auburn hair.

BLUE FOR FALL — Pale blue wool, dramatized with black, is the newest combination for fall smartness. NBC's Irene Jordan wears it in a Nan-Tucket Natural design and over her shoulder she carries a Williams Signed Original bag.

If you have a sharp eye for bargains, watch the Want Ads. A man's biggest mistake is to suppose that grass widows are green.

♦ Miss Elizabeth Kaplan, who has sold her home at 298 W. Highland ave. and is wintering at Palm Springs, returned to Sierra Madre Tuesday to cast her vote.

♦ Miss Lenora Bates, 151 Vista Circle drive, has returned from a trip to Grand Canyon, Las Vegas, Boulder Dam and Painted Desert.

♦ Guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Bradford, 1025 Perkins drive, during the week were Mrs. Bradford's brother and family, Capt. and Mrs. Clement Cotton and daughter, Dixie, visiting here from Philadelphia.

♦ Mrs. Helen Keating of the Sierra Madre Hotel returned Wednesday from a 7,000 mile motor trip through the East.

♦ Hoyt K. Pottenger, 500 Audubon Way, returned Friday from a two weeks' trip to his old home at Plattsmouth, Nebraska. While in Nebraska Mr. Pottenger enjoyed the experience of being snowed in for three days and living on pheasants. He made the trip east by automobile with Major and Mrs. R. W. Miller of this city, returning by bus. Major and Mrs. Miller are expected home November 11.

♦ Mrs. Ann Tyler, local USO chairman, announced this week that the drive to raise funds for the United Service Organization has been completed and the goal met.
